

GW Michael's Pen Art Hall Flier from 1886-87

G.W. Michael, author gives his exclusive time to teaching his already renowned system of Rapid Penmanship. He gives four regular recitations of one hour each, daily, besides much individual instruction. With two assistant penmen, Messrs. E. W. Bloser and C. P. Zaner, makes this department superior all others.

Many lessons all three (G. W. Michael and his two assistants) teach at once, thus causing the class to bound with inspiration.

Blackboard writing by G. W. Michael is conceded by all who have seen him write on the board that he has no equal in this art.

His marvelous skill has held many a large audience spell bound for an hour or longer.

Black board writing is taught thoroughly by him to the pupils who wish it, free of charge.

The two assistant penmen, Messrs. Bloser and Zaner, graduated in this institution two years ago, and have been teaching the art for us nearly ever since.

They received no instruction outside of our college. They are thorough teachers, and have but few, if any, equals as penmen. Mr. Bloser doubtless excels all penmen in America as a letter writer. He writes out thirty words to a minute, and makes his pages appear sublime in the truest sense.
